2017 to be 90 years old, the actor of Serbia and Montenegro said, as he is a real acting. "I think that actors are artists and artists should not decide the time or the way they act in life, or time and how to get out of it. But I also think that all of us make mistakes. We are only human. On the other hand we are lucky, because we all of us can learn, we can improve," the actor said in an interview. "Every time I work on the stage, I try to discover something about the character, about the story, about the art of acting, to understand it better. It is a constant learning process, that is," he said in the interview. He was in our time around 40 years old, but what he does not reveal in many interviews. For example, he is not in the public spotlight as a famous actor. But because he worked on many roles for many years in theater, he has acquired this kind of acting style in films. "I think it was more than 40 years ago. Yes, there are memories, but this is not important, I do not look to the past. In life I am focused on what is," he concluded. Hajduk Split is on the verge of opening the new stadium. The reconstruction of Maksimir, which was completed in July 2015, began October 2016. On the site of the old stadium, named Krile in the 1990s, continues with the construction of the new stadium Hajduk Split. "There are no enemies in this world, except for those we create ourselves. I do not understand why it has not yet been completed", said the CEO of Hajduk Split, Hrvoje Fuzulić, at a briefing from the construction site of the new stadium, where he also told how to make a football tour of the new stadium. "In football, it is a merit and not a promise that you will play next season in the Yugoslav First League or in the European Champions League. We are in the midst of playing in the Champions League and we will surely play next season in the Yugoslav First League. We are not just talking, we are actually speaking about this," he promised. As already mentioned, Maksimir is reconstructed. On the site of the old stadium will be constructed the new stadium Hajduk Split. The new stadium will be ready

What's the best way to handle errors in OpenGL ES 2.0? For example, I have a bunch of OpenGL ES 2.0 functions in my game that I need to use. Some of them may throw errors. What's the best way to deal with them? (In my case, I want to use the new diagnostics on Android 4.2 to debug why my textures aren't loading properly). I'm developing my game as an extension to the "official" NDK. In my case, a few functions could throw errors due to failing OpenGL ES contexts and I have been forwarding such errors to the main JNI function (NdkLoadGLES2Extension(...)). Is this the best way to go? One of the pitfalls of this technique is that it's hard to handle these errors without having a development tool to check for them. This is a concern because debugging such errors is far easier on Android 4.2. In my case, I'm developing a game in C++ using the OpenGL ES 2.0 programming guide (or at least what's in there). The NDK docs seem to suggest that wrapping calls in `NdkLoadGLLES2Extension(...)` is the way to go. A: On Android OpenGL ES 2.0 is not a part of the official SDK. And most likely you will encounter problems which you're not getting on iOS. The NDK is just a wrapper around OpenGL ES 2.0 (and the official OpenGL ES 1.x libraries are also available in the NDK). So in order to get a proper error report, you have to implement your own error handling mechanism. Check out this video: If this doesn't answer your question, please explain in more detail what you're asking, what you've tried so far and what is your goal. California f678ea9f9e
